THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

STATE OF ARIZONA, Executive Department

Since that memorable day in history when the Pilgrim Fathers and their families foregathered at Plymouth on New England's bleak and barren coast and there gave reverent thanks to God for a bountiful harvest and other blessings mercifully bestowed, time has wrought its miracles. The steady march of empire has taken its westward way; forest and plain and nature's mighty elements have paid tribute to industry, while state after state has joined a sisterhood, making the world's greatest nation. Youngest of all in statehood, but rich in potentialities is our beloved Arizona, for whose accession to the privileges of sovereignty we, her citizens, are deeply grateful.

The spirit of progress pursues an ideal. "Where there is no vision, the people perish." Behold a commonwealth where marvelous natural resources are stored in mountain and in valley awaiting industry's behest; where a people is aligned against all wrongs assailing; where the charity of a populace is almoner unto the erring and afflicted; where the poverty of the past is forgotten in the plenty of the present; where wilful waste is not the precursor of woeful want; where manhood's honesty and courage are glorified and womanly virtue is religion; where church and state work in harmony for the general good.

Obeys nature's highest law, we are grateful to our Creator for our share in the upbuilding of this young commonwealth; for the privilege of giving posterity a heritage even richer than our own; for the health and hope that abide among our people; for the contentment that dwells in our homes; for the spiritual grace that leads in the path of rectitude; for the family ties and bonds of love that hold us true to our loftiest aims; for the material prosperity that gives sustenance to home and church and state.

Now, therefore, in recognition of the blessings which we have received at the hands of the Supreme being, in conformity with a time-honored custom of the American people, and in accordance with the proclamation of the President of the United States, I, Geo. W. P. Hunt, Governor of Arizona, do hereby designate and I do earnestly recommend that on this festive occasion the usual tasks be forsaken and that all shall be deeply mindful of the needy, the sick and the unfortunate, while at altar and at fireside gratitude be shown for the gifts of God's bestowing.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the State of Arizona.

Done at the Capitol in the City of Phoenix this fourteenth day of November, A. D. 1912.

GREAT SEAL GEO. W. P. HUNT, Governor of Arizona. Attest: SIDNEY P. OSBORN, Secretary of State.

New Street Signs Coming

The system of numbering houses has been taken up and definitely settled upon. The style of the numbers will be left mainly to the individual since different houses will require numbers of different styles.

but the crowd cheered, as, with burned hands, he held up a small round box. "Fellows!" he shouted, "this Bucklen's Arnica Salve I hold, has everything beat for burns." ## A Metropolitan Triumph

Three pairs of hands gave a gentle push. Then the blinding glare of the footlights were in her eyes and vaguely she saw the audience, expectant faces white from the same fierce glare, stretching out and up, as it seemed, to infinity. The leading man came toward her with the flippant sally which opened their dialogue.

Mary hung her head. She trembled so that the daisies in her basket shook as she stammered out her response.

"That's the stuff!" muttered the leading man to her under his breath.

After the first glance she did not dare look at the house again. She kept her head half bowed; she fidgeted from one foot to the other; her lines came out haltingly awkward. And the house roared with delight—just as it was meant to roar! They saw merely a perfect rendering of the shy country girl, vivified by a subtly persuasive temperament and had no idea that Mary could not have behaved otherwise had her life depended upon it—that she was frightened almost to the fainting point.

And when at last Mary felt that she could "keep it up" no longer, that her knees would give away beneath her, the curtain came mercifully down on the close of the first act. Instantly it was swaying and rippling under the tumult of clapping hands hurled at it by the audience. Floor, balcony, and gallery were a unit in that mad acclaim. The applause which had gone before was nothing in comparison. Up went the curtain again, and, as the leading man conducted her down front, Mary for the first time realized that she had achieved that elusive thing, a "metropolitan success."

" Tells the Whole Story."

To say that Foley's Honey & Tar Compound is best for children and grown persons and contains no opiates tells only a part of the tale. The whole story is that it is the best medicine for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and other affections of the throat, chest and lungs. Stops la grippe, coughs, and has a soothing effect.
